

Maths FOR Skills

Employers want analytical skills, the ability to think
Andrew
 Computer games developer

You learn to solve problems and do a thorough investigation
Steve
 Computer programmer

Maths trains you to work in the abstract, to think creatively and come up with concrete solutions
Wen
 Architect

Mathematicians are trained to absorb, condense and logically present vast amounts of information
Hassan
 Maths professor

It's important to be able to form and communicate opinions - to be able to weigh up the evidence
Rob
 Medical statistician

that you can use in any career

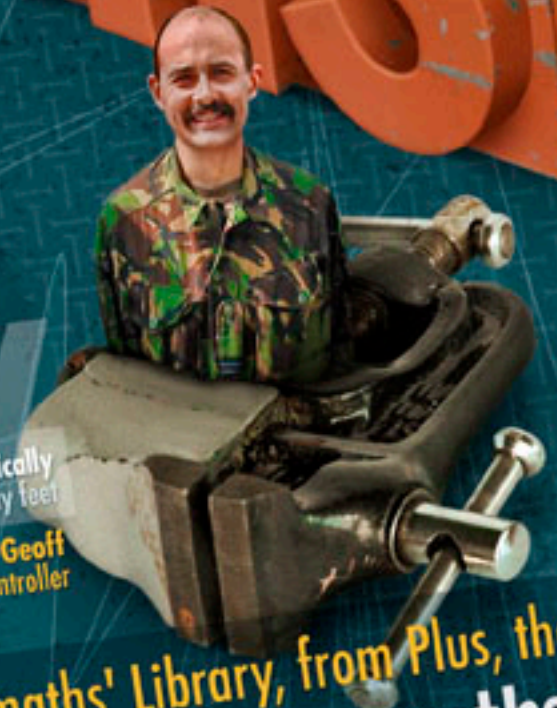

I've learnt to look at a problem from every angle and identify the core idea
André
 Food scientist

Maths and stats teach you to handle and interpret data
Jodie
 Statistical consultant

I need to reason logically and think on my feet
Geoff
 Air traffic controller

Millennium Mathematics Project
 UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE
 EPSRC
 © University of Cambridge, 2004

Find out more in the 'Careers with maths' Library, from Plus, the free online maths magazine
<http://plus.maths.org/careerslibrary/>

